The Scottish Chambers of Commerce, supported by the Scottish government, is organized by 26 local chambers of commerce, and has 11,000 members. It is an important business organization to promote the Scottish economic development, improve export capacity and attract foreign investment.

The delegation of Scottish Chambers of Commerce Visited Jereh's Manufacturing Workshop

With in-depth understanding of Jereh, Mr. Tim Alan, president of the Scottish Chambers of Commerce, said that Jereh is a strong and promising company in the field of energy. This visit establishes economic ties between Jereh and Scotland, which will promote the cooperation in areas such as energy, oil and gas. And it is expected that with the joint efforts, there will be fruitful achievements.

Mr. Ian He, CEO of Jereh Group extended a warm welcome to the Scottish guests and introduced Jereh's development in recent years. Ian said that Europe is one of Jereh's strategic markets. Now Jereh's products and services have been delivered to UK, the Netherlands, Poland and other countries, and have close cooperation with a number of well-known oil and gas companies. In 2015, Jereh had felt the charm of Scotland when participating in the Offshore Europe Show held in Aberdeen. Taking the event as an opportunity, Jereh will continue to promote the bring-in of Scotland's outstanding products and technologies, and strengthen the cooperation in areas of oil and gas.

SCC officials intend to return to the province later this year to "explore new ways to foster co-operation between the two countries".
